How the program works:

First, apply for admission to the Seattle Community Colleges, indicating your transfer preference to the Johns Hopkins Carey Business School on your application.

If you are accepted, you will receive your admission letter from the Seattle Community Colleges and a conditional letter of admission from the Carey Business School at the same time.

Next, interview at your U.S. embassy or consulate and apply for your F-1 visa. You’ll complete the first two years of your bachelor’s degree program, in addition to any required ESL courses, at the Seattle Community Colleges, earning an Associate of Arts (AA) degree. Then, you’ll transfer to the Carey Business School to complete your Bachelor of Science (BS) in Business degree.

What you need to do:

• Satisfy the English Proficiency Requirement by completing 90 or more transferable quarter units (60 semester hour credits) as part of an Associate of Arts degree at one of the Seattle Community Colleges, or submit an official TOEFL score of 100 on the Internet-based test.

• Submit a formal Johns Hopkins Carey Business School application including an essay, letters of recommendation, official copies of all transcripts, and application fee. A minimum 3.0 GPA is required on transferable credits from all previous institutions.

• Secure a course-by-course evaluation for all college credit received at non-U.S. universities. This must be completed by an approved credential evaluation agency. An official copy of the evaluation must be provided to the Carey Business School as part of the admission application.

• Submit (upon offer of admission) all required documents for F-1 student status and SEVIS transfer including, but not limited to, bank statements and financial documents.

• Adhere to all official deadlines for application and submission of F-1 student status documents.

• Enroll at the Carey Business School no later than fall 2016.

NOTE: Admission agreements are subject to general policies which may change based on demographic or economic conditions. Please check with the schools for any updated policies that may be in effect.
